LABOR DAY WILL BE OBSERVED LOCALLY

Big Celebration Arranged for Next Monday by Central Labor Union.

PARADE, ORATORY AND PICNIC

In the Morning Labor's Legions Will Keep Step with Bands and in the Afternoon Some Will Rest at Laurel Hill Park, While Others Make Speeches .- Pienic in the Night. Work of Arrangements Committee About Completed.

The committee from the local labor mions in charge of the arrangements for the Labor Day celebration in this city next Monday met last evening in Hulbert's hall.

It was definitely decided to observe the day with a parade in the morning af 10.20 o'clock and a meeting in the afternoon at Laurel Hill Park, where there will be speechmaking and games. The festivities will close with a picnic and dance in the evening at the park. Last night a committee on parade as named as follows: Central Labor mion, Daniel Harris, George Gothier, T J. Gilbride; Building Trades' union, P. W. Lamb, George Dorsey and J. P. Keifer. Mr. Lamb is chairman and Mr. Gothier, secretary. This committee vill have entire charge of the parade. The line of march and the formation of the parade will be completed by Thursday of this week, and will be generally circulated. The grand mar-shal has not been selected as yet. The general committee will make no arrangements for any prominent out-of-town labor man for "orator of the day." This year the local spell binders will do all the binding.

A delegation from the striking miners will be at the park in the after-

TWO WILLS PROBATED.

Disposition of the Estates of Wilbur F. Clements and Dr. Winters. The will of Wilbur F. Clements, late of Moscow, was probated vesterday and letters testamentary granted, by Register Hopkins, to the widow and W. L. Carr, of this city. After providing for the payment of his debts, and the erection of a suitable monument to his memory, he makes the following bequests to his wife, Angelica Clements: $10,000 in cash; the property in which she lives, with its furniture, fixtures and other effects; the lot on Mill street adjoining the property of F. B. Moss; the lot ad-joining the Moscow school house; fifeen shares of Traders' National bank stock; five shares of stock of the Paragon Plaster company; two and onehalf shares of stock of the Nay Aug and Elmhurst Boulevard company, and such life insurance as may be directed by the policies to be paid to her.

To his son, Henry Loren Clements, of New York, he gives $10,000 in cash; an undivided one-half interest in the lots known as the Clements and Loveland addition to Moscow; lots in Salt Lake City, Utah; eighteen shares of stock of the Consumers' Ice company and a gold watch and diamond pin.

To his sister, Emma F. Brink, he gives $1,000. Wyoming seminary gets $500 and he directs that $1,000 be invested for ten years for the benefit of the Moscow Methodist Episcopal church, the principal to be used as the church sees fit at the end of the ten

The residue of his estate he bequeaths to his wife and son, share and share alike. The will was drawn up Feb. 2 1897, and is witnessed by John Scheiterle and Nellie Conboy, Dr. Peter C. Winters, late of Dunmore, in his will probated yesterday by his son, Harry H. Winters, and M. W. Lowry, directs that his son, Harry H. shall receive his Underwood lake stock and $5,000 in cash; his son Ralph O., is to get $2,000 in cash, and the residue of his estate is to be divided share and share alike among thee two sons and his third son, Frank W. Winters.

KANE'S CONDITION UNCHANGED.

Victim of the Nay Aug Park Accident Not Improved.

James Kane, the young man who was so seriously hurt by falling from a swing at Nay Aug park Sunday afternoon, is still at the hospital and at a late hour last night his condition was not much improved. The hospital physicians are certain that the skull at the point where Kane's head struck the ground is not fractured, but it is feared that the severe shock may have injured the brain on the opposite side of the head, as is sometimes the case with such injuries. The best to be said of Kane's condition is that he is no worse.

In regard to the delay in the arrival of the ambulance at the park, the matter is explained by the fact that Patrolman Jones, who was at police headquarters, did not send in the call until after 5.30 o'clock, or an hour after the accident. The boy who gave the information at police headquarters in his excitement said that the man was dead. Patrolman Jones thoughtfully sent for Raub's undertaking wagon and the message for the hospital ambulance was not sent in until after Raub's wagon had come back from the park, the driver receipt of the following contributions informing police headquarters that Kane was not dead.

SAYS IT'S THE OLD GAME.

Debtor Sent to Jail on a Charge of False Pretenses. Benjamin Armovitz, a storekeeper of Washington avenue flats, was sued yesterday for $5,000 damages by Andrew Braza, of Dodgetown, who alleges malicious prosecution as the grounds for his action.

Through his attorney, J. Elliott Ross, he avers that he was arrested at Ar-movitz's instance and committed to the county jail by Alderman James P. Kelly, of the Eighteenth ward, on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses. He admits that he owed Armovitz $14 on a book account, but de-nies that he obtained the credit by making false representations. Mr. Ross stated yesterday that he will attempt to show that the criminal prosecution was brought for the purpose of scaring Braza into paying his store bill. He also says that he will parade some of the doings of the constables of that ward before the court, when the case comes to trial.

DAVIS' THEATER OPENED. Great Crowds Mark the Opening Performances Yesterday. George E. Davis' cosy theater, on Linden street, after four months of darkness, opened its theatrical season yesterday afternoon in the presence of the largest assemblage that has ever paid its respects to the house. It was a performance "free to ladies," and the remarkable response was doubly encouraging to the management as a proof that the good character of the house, which Mr. Davis has so conscientiously maintained, is appreciated by the gentle sex. There was not a dozen men in the crowd of at least 1,500 people, and hundreds were turned away. The bill was "Love and Pride," a pretty drama in three acts, introducing Opperheimer's comedians, who will play here for a week. The cast included the very clever Gracie Emmett, stalwart Jack Fowler, Eileen Moretta, who is a good emotional actress, and others. Specialities, and good ones at that, were given by Miss Emmett, Harry Lyons, imitator of noisy things, and child, Little Isabelle.

The latter charmed her big audience with very clever portrayals of Shakes-pearian characters. She also sings Taking it generally the company is a strong one. Last night's performance pleased another large audience. This afternoon and evening the same drama will be given.

SCHOOL HOUSE THIEVES.

Building Entered and Ransacked. Five Young Men Under Arrest for the Offense.

John Kelley, Michael Burke, Dennis Callahan, Patrick Callahan and Frank Ryan, all South Side young men, were arraigned before Alderman Millar yeserday afternoon charged with breaking into No. 7 school house and taking therefrom a lot of furnishings.

The school building is between Prospect and Winifield avenues. The theft was supposed to have been committed only a few nights ago, A door was smashed in by the gang. When Janitor Thomas Conery went to the building the next morning he at once noticed the marks of the visit.

The desks were turned topsy-turvey and the drawers in the teachers' desks had been forced open. Six clocks were of lead pipe was chopped out and carried off.

Alderman Millar postponed the hearing until 7 o'clock this evening. The board of control will prosecute.

SIGNED IT WHILE DRUNK.

Now, After Several Years Interim, He Wants His Property Back.

Patrick M. Barrett, of the South Side, through his attorneys, Quinnan & Donahoe, yesterday began an action in equity to recover from his children his store property on South Washington avenue, which he alleges he was induced to sign away through fraudulent misrepresentations made to him while he was on a protracted spree.

The property in question comprises a lot valued at $4,700 and a store building and residence worth about as much more. In March, 1892, he alleges, he was induced by Katie Gaughan, manager of his store, to sign a conveyance of the said premises to his son, Patrick Barrett. He was intoxicated at the time, he avers, and was not cognizant of the terms of the instrument to which he offered his signature; further than that, it was represented to him by Katle Gaughan that it was to avoid any possible reckless, foolish or wasteful disposition of the property, that might result from his drinking habit; and that as soon as he should again become temperate the property would be reconveyed to him. In March, 1892, he further alleges, Patrick S. Barrett, his son, executed a deed of trust, for the property in question, to his several children, Patrick S., Joseph, John, Mary, Katie, Andrew and Marcella Barrett, There was a balance of about one-third of the purchase money due on the property when it was conveyed to his son, but this the plaintiff has since paid. Now, although he has taken the Keeley cure and for three years has not touched a drop of intoxicants, his children refuse to give back his property and he wants

BREWERY TRUST HAS GONE UP IN SMOKE

At Least, a Pittsburg Dispatch Says Such Is the Case.

INSIDE HISTORY OF THE SCHEME

It Was the Purpose of the Combine to Buy Up All the Leading Breweries of the State and with the Aid of Favorable Legislation Make Many Millions -- Scranton Brewers Appraised Their Plants at About $8,000,000.

en causing such a commotion among the local brewers, for the last six weeks, according to telegraphic reports from Pittsburg, a thing of the past. The scheme as far as can be learned was hatched by Philadelphia capitalists. It contemplated a combination of all the big breweries of the state, its purpose being to regulate trade, raise the price of beer, repeal the Brooks high license law and pass such legislation as would suit its aims and ends. The scheme was all right and would possibly be a big success if the requisite capital was only forthcoming The promotors of the trust thought that, owing to the flerce competition and ruinous price-cutting, the brewers would be glad to get rid of their plants at almost any offer. They were very grievously disappointed on this score, however, and when they footed up what it would cost to carry out their plan they threw up their hands in horror and quit. SCRANTON OUT OF IT. Whether or not the promotors of the trust will cinch any local bargains they may have struck can not be said, but at all events this locality will not likely be one of the places they will operate in. It is said, on reliable authority, that the brewers of this city and immediate vicinity alone asked $8,000,000 for their plants. One-third of this was to be paid in cash, one-third in preferred stock and one-third in common stock. The agents of the combine took an option on the offers until Oct. 1 and it is supposed are now figuring out whether or not they can make it a paying deal at this figure. A local beer man told a Tribune re porter yesterday that the scheme would not pay. He said that after the interest on $8,000,000 was paid from the profits of brewing in this city he would not give much for the residue. By taken from the rooms, and a quantity profits of brewing in this city he would closing up half the brewerles, and forcing the price of beer up to its old figure, $8 a barrel, he thought the scheme might work, but it was running a big chance at that, for the retailers might object and by way of retaliation handle foreign beer. This would be rather disastrous to that $8,000,000 investment and the possibilities of such a disaster will at least cause the investors to think twice before taking up those options.

LOCAL DEMOCRATS IN READING.

Who Left for the State Convention Yesterday. The Democratic delegation to the state convention left for Reading yesterday afternoon at 12.65 o'clock over the Delaware and Hudson road. In addition to the regularly elected delegates already mentioned there were in the party, E. J. Lynett, editor of the Times, ex-Sheriff John J. Fahey, Mayseph Taylor, John J. Dunn, of Richmondale and State Committeeman Mar. tin F. Cadden.

Mr. Cadden and Mr. Reedy, who was substituted for the chairman of the county committee, both voted for Harrity at the committee meeting last night. This would indicate that The Tribune's estimate of the sentiments of the Lackawanna delegates was about right, notwithstanding the denials of the Democratic press,
